Essay for Changes in annual spending by a particular UK school

The three pie charts illustrate the amount of money that UK school spent annually for the years 1981, 1991, and 2001.

As per the pie chart, the salaries of the teachers had the highest percentage for both the years while the insurance accounted for the smallest percentage of money spent by the UK school in all of the three selected years.

A school spent 40% of the total spending amount for teachers' salaries in 1981 and it rose to 50% of the total amount in 1991. In 2001, the percentage was slightly declined which was 45% and it was 5% higher in 1981. The spending on other workers' salaries dropped gradually from 1981 to 2001. At the beginning, it was 28% in 1981, decreased to 22% in 1991 and in 2001, it dropped to 15% eventually.

The money spent on furniture and equipment and resources such as books were similar in 1981, which was fifteen percent of the total amount. In 1991, a lot of money was spent on resources rather than furniture and equipment, 20% and 5% correspondingly, but it reversed in the year 2001. 23% of money was spent on buying furniture and equipment while 9% of the amount was spent on resources like books. The amount spent on insurance gradually increased from the year 1981 to 2001. In 1981, a small proportion of money was allocated for insurance. It was 2%, rose to 3% in 1991 and eight percent in 2001.
