On one hand, expenditures are important for a country's economic development. The demand and supply chain should be maintained in order for the money to flow in. Consumable goods are manufactured and sold either to the customer or business. When people purchase goods and services, it drives demand, which in turn boosts production. Increased consumption is one of the important factors determining the GDP (Gross Domestic Product) of a country. To enhance the economical situation, increasing expenditure is crucial as it fuels production and economic activity.

Conversely, saving money is also important for an individual and the country. The habit of saving money can help you in economic downturns and to also overcome economic recession. You can save money and in turn buy something important, valuable and expensive like a car, jewels etc. Saving more money can help banks to lend money for investment purposes. This, in turn, supports the creation of new businesses and job opportunities. Essentially, as people earn more and save more, they contribute to a more stable and growing economy.

To sum up, in my opinion spending and saving money go hand in hand. It is important to avoid overspending on non-essential items while ensuring that savings are managed effectively. Hence we should find a balance to improve our status, thereby improving the overall economic stability of the country.

Answer for the IELTS Writing Task 2 Discuss Both Views Essay Question - Sample 2

The debate over whether to recruit individuals who are innovative and independent or those who are team-oriented and obedient is ongoing. For a company to thrive, a blend of both qualities is often necessary. This essay will explore the advantages of each approach before presenting my own perspective.

To start with, it is important to recruit people who are innovative and work independently. Such employees bring creativity and are adept at generating new ideas. They possess strong problem-solving skills and can operate effectively without constant supervision. They can initiate discussions, schedule meetings and drive improvements within the company. With the rise of remote work, the ability to innovate and work autonomously has become increasingly valuable.

On the other hand, for a company to grow, all the team should collaborate together and each team member should work collectively to bring success. A team to thrive, it is important to have people who have different strengths and who are able to work together. They should also be open to constructive criticisms and be able to correct them. The synergy of a well-functioning team can enhance both individual and collective growth.

To conclude, I feel that it is important to have a work-force that balances people who can work independently and team players who can work collaboratively. While working independently promotes growth and adaptability, teamwork ensures a cohesive environment to achieve collective goals. Hence for a company to grow, both kinds of people are essential.

IELTS Writing Task 2 Discuss Both Views Essay Question - Sample 3

The given topic below is an interesting one, where you must discuss whether to be safe doing only the known things or to grow accepting challenges. Know the pros and cons of both the sides and our opinion below.

Some people prefer to spend their lives doing the same things and avoiding changes. Others, however, think that change is always a good thing. Discuss both these views and give your own opinion

Answer for the IELTS Writing Task 2 Discuss Both Views Essay Question - Sample 3

Change is an inevitable part of life. While some people accept changes and prefer to grow, while others prefer to be in their familiar routines. In this article, let us discuss both the perspectives before I present my opinion.

Embracing change is fundamental to improving one's quality of life. Accepting change as a challenge can lead to personal and professional development. For example, if you secure a job in a new city after college, adapting to the new environment and learning new skills is essential. Stepping out of your comfort zone and facing new experiences can enhance your career and open up additional opportunities. Embracing change can lead to a more dynamic and fulfilling life.

On the other hand, individuals who prefer their usual routine, and avoid changes become stagnant in their life. They have nothing to challenge themselves. This reluctance to embrace change may result in lack of personal and professional growth. Their lives may become monotonous, lacking inspiration and motivation to advance.

In conclusion, those who welcome change and actively seek growth are more likely to achieve success and satisfaction in both their personal and professional lives. On the other hand, those who resist change may find themselves less engaged and less likely to grow. Therefore, I believe embracing change is crucial for long-term success and fulfillment.

IELTS Writing Task 2 Discuss Both Views Essay Question - Sample 4

Below we have discussed the topic, whether the improvement in science and technology has caused more environmental problems or solved it ?. Scroll down to know more in detail.

Development in science and technology have caused environmental problems. Some people think that a simpler way of life will protect the environment while others believe that science and technology can solve environmental problems. Discuss both views and give your own opinion.

Answer for the IELTS Writing Task 2 Discuss Both Views Essay Question - Sample 4

There is always an argument stating that environmental problems are caused due to the improvement in science and technology. But on the other side, it is stated that science and technology can give solutions to environmental problems. In this article, I will discuss both sides and give my opinion.

On one hand, technological progress has contributed to environmental degradation. The rise of science and technology has led to the proliferation of factories and machinery, which has reduced the need for manual labour but increased pollution. The pollution caused by factories severely affects land. On the other hand, inventions like cars and scooters, and reduced usage of public transportation have consistently increased the emission of carbon monoxide, thereby increasing global warming. With increase in innovation, too much rubbish is produced like plastic, which creates a huge land pollution.

On the other hand, life before the industrial revolution was simpler and had less environmental impact, with fewer climate changes and less pollution. However, technology has evolved, and scientists are now using these advancements to address environmental challenges. For example, electric vehicles and improved battery technologies are being developed to reduce carbon emissions. There is also a growing emphasis on renewable energy sources, such as wind, solar, bioenergy, hydroelectric, and tidal power, which aim to lower carbon footprints and mitigate environmental damage.

In conclusion, while technological advancements have contributed to environmental problems, they also offer potential solutions. It is crucial to plan and implement innovations in a way that minimizes their environmental impact. Balancing technological development with environmental responsibility is key to achieving sustainable progress.

IELTS Writing Task 2 Discuss Both Views Essay Question - Sample 5

Should a movie entertain or educate? Read below to know more about each view in detail and we have concluded with our opinion.

Some people think that movies should only be for entertainment. Others think that they should also have educational values. Discuss both views and give your opinion

Answer for the IELTS Writing Task 2 Discuss Both Views Essay Question - Sample 5

While some argue that movies should primarily serve an educational purpose, others maintain that their main goal should be entertainment. As a passionate movie lover, I believe that not every film needs to be educational, as movies can have various intentions and fulfill different roles. In this article, I will explore both perspectives and share my own view.

In our busy and fast-paced world, it's important to take breaks and enjoy ourselves. Movies are part of the entertainment industry, and their primary aim should be to entertain rather than to educate. After a long day at work, many people look forward to relaxing and having fun with friends and family.

However, some people see movies as a powerful medium for both entertainment and education. They believe that movies can be an effective platform to impart valuable lessons and information, especially since they attract large audiences. For instance, films about historical events or patriotic themes can teach children about the struggles of past generations and inspire them to appreciate their heritage. Similarly, movies that feature positive role models can motivate viewers, particularly young people, to strive for success and embody good values.

To conclude, I would like to put forth my opinion as movies are surely meant for entertainment purposes. Since it is a powerful medium a good message or educational content narrated along with entertainment is a sure hit among a vast audience. In that it can leave a great impact on many people's lives. Therefore, I support the idea of including educational elements in films when appropriate, as it can be a valuable addition to their entertainment value.
