Model essay for table chart showing the results of surveys in 2000, 2005 and 2010 about one university.

The table chart shows the data of students who gave good ratings to different facilities in their university in the years 2000, 2005 and 2010.

In 2010, the university got more ratings than the previous years for all the features except for the range of modules offered.

There is no difference in the percentage of students that rated the building and teaching facilities of the university. But looking at the percentage of students that rated the electronic resources, there is a significant rise from 45% to 88%.

The percentage in other parameters like technical quality and print resources have fluctuated up and down every year. The print resources have received the highest number of ratings from the students of the university ranging from 87% to 89%. The lowest number of students that have rated a facility is for the range of modules offered which went down from 32% in 2000 to 27% in 2010.
