Line Graph and Bar Chart Model Answer 1

This line graph and bar chart illustrate two different data. First is the number of visits to and from the UK between 1979 and 1999. Second is the number of UK residents visiting the five popular countries in 1999. Units mentioned here are measured in millions.

Until 1985 there seemed to be an upward trend in the number of visits abroad by UK residents than the number of visits to the UK by the overseas residents. Then, a sudden rise from 20 million to 52 million was witnessed in the number of UK residents visiting different countries abroad.

From the bar chart, it is clear that the number of UK residents visited France more than any other country during 1999. The next country mostly visited by UK residents is Spain with almost 10 million.

Likewise, 4 million and 3 million residents visited the USA and Greece in 1999. Whereas, Turkey would be the least visited country by UK residents with around 2 million.

Line Graph and Bar Chart Model Answer 2

The line graph talks about two factors: one is the number of residents from the UK going to other countries and the second is the number of overseas residents visiting the UK between 1979 and 1999. While the bar chart talks about how many UK residents visited the five most popular countries in 1999. Here, units are measured in millions of people.

Largely, an upward trend was witnessed in the number of visits to and from the UK where more travel was made by UK residents to other countries than visits to the UK by overseas residents between 1979 and 1999. Interestingly, France tops the list of most popular countries to visit by UK residents in 1999.

In 1979, around 15 million UK residents visited other countries. Then it increased exponentially to nearly 50 million in 1999. On the other hand, nearly 10 million overseas residents flew to the UK in the first year and gradually increased to 30 million in the final year.

In 1999, nearly 10 million and approximately 9 million UK residents visited France and Spain respectively. Similarly, 4 million and 3 million residents visited the USA and Greece. Finally, Turkey would be the country visited by the least population of UK residents, around 2 million.
